this sort of thing is good ... and necessary. we've tried promoting such initiatives through our federal greenparty platform, but there is so much redtape within the party i doubt it'll go anywhere. however, once businesses get 'with it', we'll see some real action!

green party's not entirely vegan from what the website looked like it supports regenerative agriculture, so not worth supporting enough. It's important to find one that doesn't get met with red tape either
