for those who can't contribute to wikipedia and want to just write what they identify and write whatever they want to, there's Everipedia <https://everipedia.org/>

Visit the website for the WikiProject and read through what is there. The WikiProject is NOT for merely well-intentioned vegans who are 'doing original research' that is not Wikified and done by Wikinedia

I had envisioned this years ago, but a psychologist managed to put it all together, and that's the Wikipedia base on which we are currently working.

Sometimes Wikipedia 'takes tough skin' to survive the opinion and perspective differences.

We could use another 60-120 Wikipedians.
You would need to JOIN Wikipedia and create a Wikipedia ACCOUNT (free to do), and (hopefully) set up a username and userpage. THINK about this CAREFULLY before you actually begin.
So do your 'secondary research' first - learn about the Wikipedia platform.

Excellent resource. Help us develop it by (a) joining the project (even nominally) and (b) doing background research (by Wikipedia standards) on the articles that need work.

could you post how to do so, so that I can add it to here?
