To me, cars aren't vegan, as they can create roadkill. To prevent this, try to avoid driving - instead walk, bike, etc. Above all, telecommute everywhere when possible and avoid the need to go somewhere if avoidable (especially vacations)! Let's take care of the wildlife left on the planet.

"The Los Gatos resident grew up in Colorado, and he frequently came across dead animals on the side of the road, usually after they'd been struck by a passing car or truck. It was just a fact of life: Cars and wildlife frequently collided, often with deadly results. When Schneider moved to Summit Road in the Santa Cruz Mountains, the problem existed here, too."
