Background

Medicine is ever elongating life, well past 100 years now. How will life change when people could live past 125, hundreds, or even thousands of years? Will it stay the same?

Just like how script runs out on a computer and it is possible to have too much of a good thing, to what extent do various aspects of life (like education, marriage, and children) last now that we have enough time to let it last (in the past, life ended before marriage did, will that happen with longer lifespans)?

This discussion addresses these questions and more.
