

Does the multiverse exist?

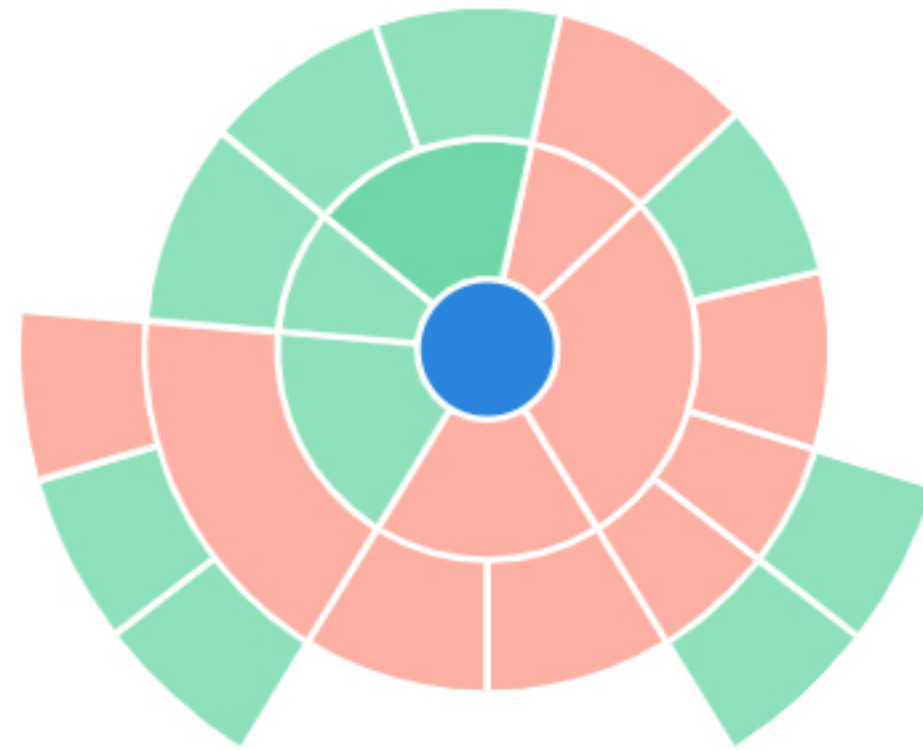

23 131 3 6 477

Background

Multiple universes were only thought up a few years ago, in 1954. Not much is known about other universes, if they exist, as we barely know what's past the edges of what we can see (over 40 million light years away).

While the owner of this discussion knows little about this subject, the owner believes that so does everyone else. So this is put up so that everyone can start thinking about, discussing, and coming up with thoughts (including and especially the what-ifs), so we can answer this question once and for all. Feel free to add in theories and anything else that'll help this discussion proceed.
