In my other claim (www.kialo.com) I reply that it's better not to do so.

The reason is that I think that in another planet we would have a quite similar society system that on Earth, so the question about demonetization would get similar answers in both planets. But a virtual world is quite different than a physical one, so it could function quite differently.

@Jeremialo I agree but also disagree because there are factors to living on another planet that is different to living on Earth (such as a lack of a built environment, proximity to other countries - unless other countries join in, and a lack of resources)

@Jeremialo I'm going to need to rewrite the VR thing to match the demonetization discussion
