

Vertical Farming Should Replace Current Agricultural Methods

10ms ago Masmpg1 (1) Invite

SUGGESTED PRO

Vertical gardening is great for most garden types. There are many great methods to incorporate together like permaculture. If its windy the vertical suffers, but incorporated into permaculture gardening landscape there are good natural wind breaks to protect the vertical gardening. Another one to incorporate is a keyhole garden, in fact many of them.

Accept Reply

Pros Cons

thanks for the invite @vegforlife :)

lunakana1 (5.2k) · 3y

@lunakana1 anytime :)

You (8.8k) · 3y

@lunakana1 how do you like it so far?

You (8.8k) · 3y

@vegforlife so far its pretty interesting! I like the idea of vertical farming—I'm curious to see how this shapes up. :)

lunakana1 (5.2k) · 3y

@lunakana1 I bet I'll add more information to this later. I wish other people would add more to the topics I create where it gets to be like 300 claims. lol why they don't move that far. Is it because they are too difficult to understand, too far into the future, or something else?

You (8.8k) · 3y

@vegforlife do you mean once you reach 300, there is less claims being added?

lunakana1 (5.2k) · 3y

@lunakana1 nah, I mean at least get to that point as a minimum and then surpass it to infinity!

You (8.8k) · 3y

@vegforlife ah I see! I've seen a few debates that keep on going. Sometimes I think its nothing about difficulty. I've had a few debates that went no where—I think it sometimes depends on what people are interested in at the time. But I've also seen debates that seem over take out of the blue, so you never know! :)

lunakana1 (5.2k) · 3y

@lunakana1 sweet! I was wondering if you know of any links I could add to this topic? There are so many out there, but I'm just trying to get all the claims out there :)

You (8.8k) · 3y

Ohai @lunakana1 =)

Just to add onto this, I think a lot of the time more specialized topics need a bit of research and stuff because of that. But agree with @lunakana1 that they sometimes just suddenly take off... @vegforlife

fnerrd (1.1k) · 3y

@vegforlife if you like I can look for some links and add them where they fit?

fnerrd (1.1k) · 3y

That's a good point @fnerrd! Very true. Not sure if you've used this link @vegforlife but draxe.com may have some helpful info www.yvop.com/market.com

lunakana1 (5.2k) · 3y · edited 3y

@fnerrd definitely! Since I prioritize ideas over evidence, it leaves opportunity for others to fill in what I am not able to get to. Thanks

You (8.8k) · 3y

@lunakana1 I'm not sure why, but I am not a fan of the draxe website for some reason, maybe I thought there were errors on it or something. But I'll check both of them and see if I can fit them in. I remember I have one link I can use and hope to add it in as well.

You (8.8k) · 3y

@vegforlife ok, no worries, just grabbed a few sources for you to look over, use what seems valuable to you :)

lunakana1 (5.2k) · 3y

@vegforlife @lunakana1 Thanks, and will just add sources. I agree re the ideas and sources, but I just really like to check out where ideas come from, so I really like having sources as well =)

fnerrd (1.1k) · 3y

@lunakana1 ok! @fnerrd that's one aspect of school that bugged me: sometimes I would think of an idea and teachers want evidence, but there would be none because I was the only person to think of the idea. Also, finding evidence detracts from the person who first thinks it up anyway (unless they specifically get the idea after reading an article, in which linking is fine).

You (8.8k) · 3y

@vegforlife I mean, I guess there are different kinds of ideas... how would you go about finding out whether the idea you're having is an original idea, or whether someone already worked on that and might have more information that can could inspire you to think further? :)

fnerrd (1.1k) · 3y

@fnerrd you can find out by trying to see someone else talk about it and come up short.

You (8.8k) · 3y

@vegforlife OK, maybe I just don't see how that is different to adding sources, to me that's pretty much the same =)

But I guess it's good we all have different approaches, keeps like interesting!

fnerrd (1.1k) · 3y

@fnerrd definitely

You (8.8k) · 3y

Interesting source: www.urbanseedins.com

Jermialo (638) · 2y

@Jermialo that's a really great link, I didn't even know about it, and I go to Vegas periodically. Definitely using this link and possibly visiting the place next time!

You (8.8k) · 2y